Your Video can last a century!

Have you ever wanted to preserve a life story or the testimonial of a loved one, a colleague or a friend?

Did you know that you can now do this easily with modern technology in very high quality sound and video?

DVD tape and DVD discs can be used to store memories of the past without fear of deterioration. The media can kept for at least a 100 years.

Imagine your grandchildren and their children being able to see and hear you talk about your life 50 or 100 years from now!

PB Publishing Video offers you an opportunity to record details of your life or those of someone important to you and to pass those recollections along as a treasured gift from generation to generation.

Interviews are personally conducted by a qualified interviewer and videotaped using a Canon XL1 Digital Camcorder. Our interviewer will ask you poignant, interesting, and personalized questions about your family and career. You'll be asked about the important milestones and times in your life.

Interviews can be edited or left intact for content. If you have photos or other memorabilia, these can be included as well when we edit the interview session and transfer it to DVD (or VHS tape if you wish). For a more polished presentation you may wish to consider narration and music.

Payment and Production

All our PB Publishing Video services require a 50% deposit prior to our arrival at your home or office. The remaining balance is due upon completion of your video.

Production of your video biography may take up to one month to complete.

You must have all your materials, such as photos and other interview subjects ready on the day that we arrive for the interview. If you do not have all items ready, the interview will be rescheduled. Please note that while we can add extra items during the production period, there will be extra charges.

Our video is made with an XL1 digital camera. Editing is done on a MAC G4 using Final Cut Pro and DVD Studio Pro. Output is to NTSC.

MasterCard, Visa and Personal Checks accepted.
